Foreword

BECAUSE of the standards given this school by the great educator for whom it is named; because of the repeated victories of our school against obvious overwhelming odds; because of the ideals for which the Class of 1930 stands, we have greatly enjoyed collecting and editing as much of the history and traditions of the school as we can find space for.

For our fellow classmates, we have tried, to the best of our ability, to portray the phases of school life that will, in the years to come, keep our minds filled with the spirit of Hugh Morson High School. We hope that we have lived up to the honor that you have graciously bestowed upon us.

Of our friends and readers we have but one simple request: when they glance through the pages of this book, let them not be critical; for we have done our best; and if we have failed, the fault is in us and not in our efforts.

To those interested in the past, present, and future of Hugh Morson High School, we humbly present

THE OAK LEAF OF 1930

Hugh Morson High School

Dedication

WE, the students of the Class of 1930 of Hugh Morson High School, do lovingly dedicate this fourth volume of a man who has not only proved himself a friend in time of need, but who has also been a great leader, in that, during his administration as Superintendent of the Public Schools of Raleigh, he has completed a very extensive and much needed building program.

THE OAK LEAF

TO

HUBBARD F. SRYGLEY

Not Finished, Just Begun

SOME fifteen years we've lived, and yet
Our course we must run.
Before us lie our hopes and fears
Not finished, just begun.

Some, happiness will ere pursue;
Some, happiness will shun;
For all, the future is as yet
Not finished, just begun.

Behind us lies a short pathway
Of trivial woe and fun,
Which, seeming crucial, is still
Not finished, just begun.

When we at last have passed the goal
And our last race have won,
Still may we whisper as we go
Not finished, just begun.

MARGARET TILGHMAN,
Class Poet.

Class History

THE class of 1930 was born in September, 1919. On this memorable day two hundred children entered the Raleigh public schools. They remained in these different schools for six years.

In 1925 they came to the Junior High School on Morgan Street. The two years that they were there, they were not organized; but they met each other and added several new pupils. Chief among them was Emily Miller, who came to them from Shelby.

In 1927 they came to Hugh Morson where they were then sophomores. After they became adjusted to being in high school, they decided to organize and elect their class officers. Thomas Jones was elected president. Except for the novelty of being in high school and for organizing the class, the sophomore year was uneventful.

Juniors! How proud they were that they could call themselves by that name. Just as soon as the classes had become settled, Miss Creighton was elected class adviser. At once, with her usual efficiency, she appointed a committee to order the class rings. While the students were impatiently awaiting the arrival of the class rings, the following class officers were elected: Jimmy Nowell, president; Claude Freeman, vice president; Billy Brown, secretary; and Elizabeth Webster, treasurer. After the rings had arrived, the class began to think about raising money for the Junior-Senior Banquet. A play, "Miss Molly," was given. With the money earned by the play and with some obtained from other places a banquet was given at the Carolina Hotel in May. This was the first Junior-Senior Banquet to be given at a hotel. Everyone agreed that it was the best class banquet ever given.

In 1929 everyone came to school proudly but rather sadly: proud to be seniors but sad to be separated from classmates who were attending the new high school.

After a month of impatient waiting, it was decided that each school would have an annual. An annual staff was elected at once. Albert L. Olmstead was chosen editor-in-chief; and Margaret Little, business manager. At the same time the following class officers were elected: Cornelius Bretsch, president; Claude Freeman, vice president; Virginia Cox, secretary; Cornelia Love, treasurer; Stewart Robertson, testator; Susan Stoker, historian; Margaret Tilghman, poet; and Joe Sawyer, prophet. Miss Coffey was elected to assist Miss Creighton and the annual staff.

Many things were done to raise money for THE OAK LEAF; among these was the presentation of a play, "A Corner of the Campus," and the Senior Circus. The whole school gave hearty coöperation in making the circus a success.

This is a very abridged history of the Class of 1930. Although this class has made a very enviable record, it is only a glimpse of the things it foretells. And now we must step out, one and all, into the school of life, realizing that our work is "Not finished, just begun."

SUSAN STOKER.

The Last Will and Testament

UPON behalf of my client, the Class of 1930 of Hugh Morson High School, of the city of Raleigh, State of North Carolina, U. S. A., I have called you together upon this serious and solemn occasion, to listen to her last will and testament and to receive from her dying hand the few gifts that she has to bestow in her last moments.

We, the Senior Class, being of simple mind, but considering the uncertainty of the days we have to tell others what we think of them, do make and declare this our last will and testament, revoking and making void all former wills or promises.

ITEM I

To Mr. Srygley, our superintendent; to Mr. Wessinger, our principal; and to our faculty we leave our deep and sincere thanks for their untiring efforts and undivided interest in aiding us to reach our present enviable positions.

ITEM II

To our school as a whole, we bequeath the new constitution that the Constitution Committee of the Student Coöperative Association has drawn up. May you use this constitution for the betterment of your school and yourself.

ITEM III

To the Junior Class we will our senior privileges (with a magnifying glass to find them) and everything else that we left in our hurry to receive our diplomas.

ITEM IV

To the Sophomore Class, as a student body, we give and bequeath Susan Stoker's knowledge of economics, philosophy, art, science, and the universe in whole or in part.

ITEM V

To the Freshman Class we leave this motto, "To be seen, and not heard."

ITEM VI

The following may seem but trifling bequests, but we hope they may be accepted, not as worthless things lavishly thrown away because we can no longer keep them, but as valuable assets to those who may receive them, and a continual reminder of the generosity of heart displayed in our fine and full bestowal:

First. To the football team of next year, Albert Olmstead's and Barnes Worth's athletic ability. We could not induce Bill Dunaway to surrender his.

Second. To Annie Louise Wilkerson, Elizabeth Gantt's musical gift.

Third. To George Riddle, William Scruggs's bluff to add to what he already possesses.

Fourth. To Furman Betts, Cornelius Bretsch's knowledge of law.

Fifth. To William Anderson, Thomas Adams's height.

Sixth. To anybody who needs it, Emily Miller's gift of gab. Apply early and avoid the rush.

Seventh. To Alvin Kaplan, Jack Stonebanks's good looks.

Eighth. To Bob Nowell, his brother Jimmy's popularity.

Ninth. To Thomas Council, Dabney Gettel's dignity.

Tenth. To Robert Sumner, Edgar Hall's scholarship and punctuality.

Eleventh. To Margaret Price, whose voice is rarely heard, Oscar Davis's oratorical ability.

Twelfth. To Seaman Hudson, James Liles's friendliness.

ITEM VII

First. We do hereby appoint Miss Creighton sole executrix of this, our last will and testament.

Second. In witness thereof, We, the Class of 1930, the testators, have to this, our will, set our hands and seal.

STEWART ROBERTSON, Testator.

Class Prophecy

IT seems that my class had become rather boring. The teacher's seldom raised, seldom lowered voice was like a lullaby to me in my state of drowsiness. Unconscious of my act, I had rested my head drearily upon my arm; and like one succumbing to the effects of ether, I gradually lost consciousness. But lo! my thoughts soon returned, and I beheld the wonder of all wonders. I had been transferred twenty years hence and was privileged to observe the future of many of my erstwhile classmates.

In some unknown manner, I found myself walking down a prominent street of the city. Everything was changed. The first thing to catch my eye was an enormous billboard. In large letters across its top were "Hudson and Worth Five Ring Circus." Also, on this board were caricatures of Thomas Adams, "The Human Stilt Walker," and Doane Kemp, "The Nation's Most Popular Clown."

While I was gazing at this board, who should chance to come along but Wilma Branch and Kathleen Johnson? I was overjoyed at seeing them after so many years. They seemed very enthusiastic over the fact that they were running a kindergarten.

Leaving them, I soon met Gertrude Mitchener, the beauty parlor operator. Engaging in lengthly conversation with her, I learned that several of our classmates were doing educational work. She informed me that Inez Patterson and Mildred Perry were teaching in Goldsboro High School; and lately they had been doing much research work, securing all of their material from Cornelia Love and Virginia Mann, associate librarians of the Congressional Library. Other members of our class were filling positions in the institutions of the state. James Liles was professor of mathematics at Wake Forest and had advanced a new light on the fourth dimension. He was assisted by Donald Kimrey. Violet McKelvey and Margaret Little were educating boys and girls at Cary High School. Violet was principal, and Margaret was truant officer.

I continued my rambles throughout the city and from various sources learned the following: in the State offices of North Carolina Dabney Gettel was Commissioner of Revenue. His secretary was Ethel Holt, and the staff members were as follows: Ethel Bennett, Lenora Brockwell, Elizabeth Allen, Helen Frazelle, and Catherine Harrington. In the Department of Education Lyle Hofmeister was Superintendent of Public Instruction, and his secretary was Aridella Jordan. The Commissioner of Agriculture was Charles Horton whose knowledge of rural life was helping him immensely.

Mildred Pittman and Stewart Robertson were editing The Raleigh Times and were supporting Thomas Bailey for President of the United States. They were also featuring revolutionary news from Mexico, and their latest story stated that Bill Dunaway had elected himself President of Mexico. Assisting him in this revolution were: his wife, Naomi Sharpe; Ivey Gattis; Daniel Rudy; Alex Goodman. Their Mexican column also stated that Evelyn McNair was living in Mexico.

Genevieve Rozar was painting cover pages for leading magazines, and her chief models were Jack Stonebanks and Mildred Womble. She was also art director for the studio in which were three movie stars; namely, Dorothy Sawyer, Reginald Moore, and James Nowell. In this same studio, Albert Olmstead was director of all athletic pictures.

On the night previous there had been a hop given at West Point. James Porter, dancing master, gazed with pride as his pupils glided gracefully across the polished floor. Music for the dance was furnished by John Finlator's orchestra. It was composed entirely of Hugh Morson Alumni: Edgar Hall, Claude Freeman, Maurice Thiem, Thomas Bost, James Bynum, and Bill Scruggs.

Big happenings were scheduled for the following day in Chapel Hill. Virginia Cox was giving a party at her home in honor of Pauline Britt who was visiting her. Others present were: Dorothy Utley, Margaret Wade, Mabel Sargeant, Eleanor Rozar, Louise Hinton, Doris Fogleman, Elizabeth Edgerton, Cornelius Bretsch, and Bill Finlator.

It was North Carolina Home Coming Day, and visitors to the old Hugh Morson were Susan Stoker, Margaret Tilghman, Elise Hedrick, Eloise Shearin, and Elizabeth and Marguerite Colwell. Susan and Margaret were writing theme songs in Hollywood. Elise and Eloise were featuring a style shop in New York, and Elizabeth and Marguerite were growing rich operating a bus line from coast to coast.

Caroline Garrison, Marion Vinson, Edith Wells, Ida Yates, Margaret McDade, Eva Glass, and Mary Echerd were appearing in a vitaphone chorus as the "Gamison Sisters." In the same vaudeville bill Gladys Bundy featured with her violin solos. At one time something happened to the picture mechanism, and the lapse during its repairing would have been boring had it not been for Josephine Laster's organ recital.

At a meeting of the Raleigh Y. W. C. A. the officers for the coming year were elected as follows: physical director, Emily Miller; general secretary, Julia Smith; and the board of directors were Betty Weaver, Estelle Hardee, Martha Woodall, Kate Pegram, Dorothea Parker, and Norma Morgan. At this meeting Inez Coppedge related her travels in Porto Rico.

Velma Patterson had married and moved to New York, and the famous mannequin Evelyn Riggan was sharing her apartment. The interior decoration of this apartment was most ingeniously done by Mary Frances Barnes who had attracted much attention due to her ability in this line. Visiting them were two missionaries, Mary Harvey Love and Frances Craddock.

It seemed that I had been foretold the future of all my classmates when I was awakened by a loud laugh from Hubert Rand. My senses gradually returned, and with a yawn or two I discovered myself back in class. Hubert laughed too soon, for his future had not yet been foretold.

Joe Sawyer.

Here's to our sub-fresh wizards!
Here's to their many falls!
Here's to the way they bear each delay
When rushing thru the halls!

Oft may they hear their praises
Ring in uplifting sound;
Oft may the thrill of achieving skill
Dilate their heart-strings round.

When at last they are seniors
Then may they recollect
When they were boys and endure the noise
The sub-fresh now effect.

Football

THE Raleigh Highs, on the whole, had a fairly successful football season. They used the plan authorized by the University of North Carolina in which the team with the best percentage of Class A. High Schools in Eastern North Carolina would play the team with the same qualifications in Western North Carolina.

Although the Raleigh team did not go very far in the way of a high standing among the leaders, it had the satisfaction of beating the Wildcats of Wilmington for the first time in three years. The two Wildcat victories over Raleigh in the last two years eliminated the team from participating against a Western eleven at Chapel Hill. The local's victory over Wilmington was responsible for the second meeting of the Wildcats and Goldsboro, in which the latter won 13-2. Raleigh won the Wilmington game, due to its ability to stop Wildcat threats and the brilliant way in which the whole team played. The winning score came on a pass, Bailey to Paris, and the extra point was added by the air route, Bailey to Dunnaway. The victory was especially pleasing to Bailey and Paris who were the only veterans back from the '28 team.

Raleigh played four games in the championship series, and the win over Wilmington was the only victory rung up. In the first game Raleigh journeyed to Fayetteville and lost a two touchdown decision. The second was a tilt with the boys from the seaport town, and the third battle was with the Durham Bulls. The Bulls eked out a touchdown in the first two minutes of play, but both teams played on even terms the remainder of the game. In the final game of the championship series, Goldsboro was host to the Raleigh team. Due to the rain throughout the game, both teams were handicapped by the cold weather. The Earthquakes won by a lone touchdown over the visitors, but it was anybody's game. This left the Raleighites with .250 percentage mark as a result of a single win in four starts.

In the regular season play, not including the championship series, the locals won two contests and tied another. The Raleigh Highs opened their 1929 season grid play by chalking up a 28-0 score over Nashville. Dunaway was the star of the game by his superb running, which netted him three touchdowns. The second opponent for the Highs was with Smithfield at the Johnston County Capital. The count at the end of this game was deadlocked at 7 all. At Riddick field the following week, Raleigh was matched with Bladenboro. The locals ran wild; and when the final whistle had blown, they were on the big end of a 39-12 score. Cox and McLeod starred in the line with Dunaway and Womble featuring in the backfield. There were no more games after this encounter, except the ones of championship bearing.

It would be a difficult problem to pick out the stars of the team, for there were many; each regular should get credit for his coöperation in the team's play. Starting at ends, Paris, Blackwood, and Reaves were excellent in smearing opponents' plays. Then McLeod and Haynes handled their assignments well at the tackle posts with Jack Cleveland sharing honors as an able sub. Worth Olmstead and Hudson were thorns in the side of opposing teams. Although small in stature, they played beautifully at their guard position. "Nero" Cox at center provided many thrills for Raleigh fans by intercepting several passes through his long arms as well as by being an able tackler. Dunaway was a brilliant open field runner and performed his duties well at the quarterback post. Womble and Ferrell were shining lights in both the defensive and offensive play. Womble was noted particularly for his line bucking and Ferrell for his hard tackling. Morgan played fine as a sub and as a regular. Captain-elect Bailey put up a whale of a game at the fullback post and showed up fine in the offensive as well as the defensive play. Scores follow:

Basketball

THE Raleigh Highs had another successful basketball season although they were eliminated by Durham for the Eastern Class A Championship. The basketball season was conducted on the same basis as the football season. The team with the best percentage was declared the Eastern champion. Raleigh and Durham had won five games each and lost none before the deciding contest. The Bulls defeated the Highs 20-12.

The locals opened the championship series by playing at Wilson and they took the measure of the Charles L. Coon High School by a 33-17 count. In the second game of the Eastern schedule, the Highs played the Earthquakes of Goldsboro, at Raleigh, and literally ran wild, smothering the Quakes to the tune of a 65-8 score. The next game for the Raleighites was with Rocky Mount at the Capital City. The Raleigh boys won in a close game, 37-28. This game was played on Tuesday, and the following Saturday Raleigh went to Wilmington and won over the Wildcats, 30-21. At Raleigh, the next week, Fayetteville lost to Raleigh by a 40-25 score, after playing them on even terms for the first half. Then, the Durham game concluded the season's play.

Raleigh made a very impressive showing in the games with no championship bearing. The Highs opened regular season play by swamping Clayton 52-5 on the Clayton Court. "Trip" Rand led the offensive attack by ringing up 23 points. Raleigh then journeyed to Wake Forest and lost a close verdict to Wake Forest Freshmen 18-16. The lead changed several times only to have the Baby Deacons nose out a victory in the last two minutes of play. Several weeks later the locals took a trip into Western North Carolina and played two games, winning both of them. The first game was with Lenoir-Rhyne Freshmen. The Highs launched a brilliant last quarter rally to turn back the Rhyners, 30-25. The final game found Hickory as the opponents for the Raleigh team. Statesville had won 13 out of 14 starts, previous to the Raleigh game. However they struck a snag, and the visitors' beautiful offense was too much for the Western team, the final score being 46-20 in favor of Raleigh. After returning to Raleigh the locals met three teams in the championship series before meeting another opponent with no championship bearing. Trenton was the final team to play the Raleigh Highs before the Durham game. This team had already hung up a very impressive showing, winning 18 out of 20 contests. They were expected to give the locals a stiff fight. However, the Rand and Womble combination ran wild to defeat the Trentonites 44-13. The team had no particular star. Everybody performed in fine style in the offensive and defensive play of the Highs. Captain "Trip" Rand was the most outstanding man on the offense. Rand was high scorer for the season and chalked up many two pointers. He averaged 15 points a game for the first five contests of the Eastern championship. Rand received able assistance from "Chub" Womble, his running mate. Womble's passing was responsible for many counters made by Rand and he contributed some fine defensive play. Cox, center, proved an excellent pivot man and he cut down many threats of opposing teams by his fine work on the defense. Arnold Jacobs, guard, proved to be the best on the defense. Although rather small in stature, Jacobs with his close guarding was always helpful in holding the opponents' score down. Grimes Hanna and Robert Austin alternated at the other guard position. Hanna's floor work was fine and Austin played several good games during the season. Just a word about the second team. The Reserves deserve credit for their work in relieving the Regulars. Whenever Raleigh piled up a big score, they were sent in and they generally played a fine game. Season's scores follow:

Raleigh	Score	Opponents	Score
Raleigh	16	Wake Forest Fresh	18
Raleigh	33	Wilson	17
Raleigh	30	Lenoir-Rhyne	25
Raleigh	46	Statesville	20

On Being Fat

OH how I love being fat. What I like about it is that I don't hear many wise cracks—not much. Of course, everyone knows who I am; for on my arrival at school I am greeted with "Hi Minnie," or "Hey Slim." Oh what a world of fun I have in large crowds. A lot of service other folks receive from me; for in a mob I push my way through, and thousands may come after me. Of course I attract much attention, for I am the largest thing in school. When I consider how my fat is spent, I often wonder if it is spent wisely. I use it to the best advantage at all times; for instance, in football I keep the benches warm; in basketball, I help protect the public; in track, I will pack the ground; in baseball, I will be the backstop. In case you do not know who this is; it is James Bryant Liles, Esq.

On Being Tall

THINK of the thrill of being tall, standing head and shoulders above everyone else. What I like about being tall is that I don't hear many "wise cracks"—not many. The usual greetings one receives from the insignificant runts are: "How is the weather up there?" "How in the world did you get to be so tall?" "Do you think it will rain today?" A frequent and very dumb one is "Where do you get clothes to fit you?" The only sensible answer to this one is, "I buy them." All of these "wise cracks" are so old they are stale; and when they are heard, go in one ear and out the other. It is a pity some of the runts don't use the intelligence to make up some new ones.

If anyone will notice closely the next time he sees a fellow small of stature, he will see that he tries to hold his head up in order to look taller and attract attention. Then notice a tall fellow; he walks with ease and attracts as much attention as the small one.

We may have fun made of us, we may be "snooted," "raz-berried," but the time we get revenge is whenever there is a wreck, fight, or any other type of free entertainment. A tall fellow can look on with ease. The little one is "down under," not able to see, and is blowing and puffing for air.

There is an old saying "The bigger they are, the heavier they fall"—but pray help the little fellow he falls on.

YOUR MOST VERSATILE SERVANT

Electricity has become the most versatile servant of the home, the office, the store and factory.

In the home it cooks the meals, refrigerates the food, entertains with music over the radio or various types of reproducing machines, sweeps the floors, washes the clothes and curls the hair.

In the office, store and factory electricity multiplies the efficiency of man's hands and increases his income.

It is the business of your Electric Power Company to see that these modern servants are constantly on the job—day and night.

BUILDERS of DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to interpret the ideas of the Staff and create in material form their vision.

From the art work and engravings to the finished book, this volume is the result of organized coöperation with the Staff.

Such able coöperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

To those Staffs desiring complete co-operation from art work and engravings to the finished book, we offer unexcelled service. Complete service means undivided responsibility as to the result—one organization to correspond and talk with—one trained director to merge the many ingredients into the finished product.

You, too, may be proud of your annual.

Correspondence is Invited
